

The U.S. Federal Government is currently reviewing its websites and materials in accordance with recent Executive Orders and related guidance. During this review, some pages and publications for grants and related guidance/solicitation documents will be unavailable. This month's newsletter contains mostly the same information as last month to provide for the most current information we have on open grants and their deadlines. Unfortunately, however, some of the links (primarily the U.S. Department of Justice grant programs) will not work at this time.
